

Cyberspace: the power of information technology in the modern world

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8th 2011 11 am to 4.30 pm

A Saturday seminar event on up and coming cyber challenges organised by Friends of Le Monde Diplomatique

The Gallery, 70/77
Cowcross Street, London
EC1M 6EJ

Doors open from 10.30 am

Admission £5 on door

Morning 11am to 1.00pm

Professor William Dutton
Director of the Oxford Internet Institute

Professor Monica Whitty
Department of Media and Communication,
University of Leicester.

Lunch break 1.00 pm to 2pm
Bring your own refreshments

Afternoon 2pm to 4.00pm

Dr David Betz
Department of War Studies,
King's College, London

Dr Nick Anstead
Department of Media and Communications
London School of Economics

Plenary session 4.00 to 4.30pm

- Is the information in Cyberspace controllable, and by whom?
- Will virtual interactions radically change the nature of human relationships?
- Cyberwars: can cyberspace be used as an instrument of aggression?
- Is the internet conducive to a politically mobilised society?

For more information see www.monediplofriends.org.uk
or email us at enquiries@monediplofriends.org.uk